500,000 Persons Would Be Idle Alone in Cotton Industry If Action Is Decided On.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The undation for a possible general strike of taxtile employes was laid today at the annual convention of the United Textile Worker Union of America. A resolution, adopted without oposition, read: "We recommend that some arrangement shall be made that all agreements or contracts made by local unions shall be drawn up so that all shall expire on the same day. "In the event of a national strike, every local is empowered to respond to the call. No local shall be work ing while other locals are out on strike." The chief complain of the workers is that the right to collective bargaining as provided for under the NRA has been denied them, Picketing Causes Summons.

While he was presiding a summons was served on Thomas S.

McMahon, president of the union, to show cause why the union should not be enjoined from picketing the acdore Knitting Mills of Brooklyn. The order was signed by Suprema Court Justice Charles J. Dodd, and is returnable in Brooklyn Supreme Court Aug. 20. It also named David Dubinsky, president of the Inter-national Ladies' Garment Workers Union. Dubinsky was not present hen the summons was served.

Strikes Advocated.
Additional machinery for calling of the general strike was provided in a report presented by the union's research department through Francis J. Gorman, first vice-president of the union. The report recom-mended a general strike and a method for calling it. This recom-mendation was in the form of two resolutions. The research division suggested that the organization's secutive council be vested with Convention's Resolutions.

"Agencies and associations of employers" was a term used to describe the various boards c' the NRA in a resolution adopted yesterday. The resolution declared the NRA had increased the profits of employers several hundred per cent, but forced the wages of skilled workers down to the minimum.

The convention, however, rejected a proposal that its officers reed a proposal that its officers resign from all NRA posts which they sign from all NRA posts which they hold. Delegates accepted the argument of Emil Rieve, president of continued, only .60 tons of hay per animal unit, whereas in 1983 there was pons to obtain proper enforcement of the NRA collective bargaining provision.

Other Resolutions.

Other Resolutions favor: A call for the American Federation of Labor to organize a political labor party; union organization by industries instead of crafts; removal of the cotton processing tax; passage of Federal unemployment insurance, and the financing of it by increasing income taxes in the higher brackets.

The convention protested to Mayor LaGuardia against what it called "brutal" methods used by police in dispersing 500 striking knit goods workers in Brocklyn. The Mayor investigated immediately and said he saw no justification for the police "attack."

Hartzell claimed that Drake, the English privateer who died in 1596, now has but one living descendant, and that he had bought from that descendant an assignment of interest in a estate of which, he said Drake's heirs had been fraudulently deprived. He promised a return of $1000 for every $1 invested to help him recover the estate.

An injunction suit was filed in Circuit Court today by Joseph P. Harris, a Negro lawyer, against various city officials and the Municipal Auditorium Commis ing that they be enjoined from alleged discrimination against Negroes in the use of the Audi-torium,

The petition states that the Negroes as taxpayers helped to erect and maintain the Auditorium but that they are "deprived of the full right of admission and oppor-tunity of attending public attrac-tions to which they are entitled." It asks that the court stop the use of city revenue for the Auditorium of city revenue for the Auditorium until the Negroes are granted this Named in the petition are more than a dozen city officials, among them Mayor Dickmann, the members of the Auditorium Commission and James E. Darst, manager of the Audituoriun At Darst's office it was said that in any attractions presented by the city there is no discrimination against Negroes but that when any of the various halls are rented out to private individuals or organiza-tions "the Auditorium does not attempt to dictate to whom tickets should or should not be sold."

Board of Education Census Shows 13,042 of These Are Whites.

There are 17,938 adult illiterates in St. Louis, according to the census made recently by the Board of Education. They are divided by sex and race as follows:

White men, 5525; white women, 7517; all whites, 13,042; Negro men, 2230; Negro women, 2666; all Negroes, 4896; all men, 7755; all women, 10,183. The data is for persons 16 years of age or older, who are unable to read or write English. Philip J. Hickey directed the cen-sus for the board. Figures on total population, unemployment and other items in the canvass have been published heretofore.

It is the board's intention to offer its facilities to the illiterates to teach them to read and write. A card index record has been made of them.

TUGWELL SAYS SOUTH HAS TAKEN FARM PLANNING LEAD

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Speaks Before South Carolina Institute.

Institute.

By the Associated Press.

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., Aug.
16.—The South has pointed the way to the nation in economic and agricultural planning, Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, said yesterday at the State's annual Farm and Home Institute.

"Under the New Deal," he said,
"the South is coming into its own again as the partner of the North and West in developing our national future along new and co-operative lines."

He said the South, in expressing overwhelming approval of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, had pointed to a new agricultural era which other sections had been slow in following, but which was begin-ning to take form.

As to the future, he said, the South itself must decide. He de-clared this area must again take the leadership in transforming tempo-rary control programs into something of a permanent policy, and declared it must be done, especially in the South, in time to influence 1935 spring planting.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 16.—Senator Capper (Rep.), Kansas, requested Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last night to remove all restrictions on land retired from production of either wheat or corn through contract with the Government to permit seading of winter ment, to permit seeding of wheat this fall.

In a telegram to Wallace, Capper said he believed that not only said he believed that not only should efforts to limit acreage be suspended or materially modified because of the short crop and disappearance of the surplus, but that fall-sown wheat, under favorable conditions, "will supply the quickest available pasture and will be of inastimable value to every farmer who has livestock."

Pistols Drawn by Guardsmen.

While the House was receiving favorable omnibus report on the 28 bills of Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, pistols were drawn by National Guard troops in New Orleans where the guardsmen at Jackson Barracks, mobilization grounds outside the city, were blocking civil deputies from seizing Adjutant-General Raymond H. Fleming and one of his captains.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 16, -A new Paraguayan drive against Bolivian forces in the Chaco hought to be under way,

An official announcement said Paraguay's troops had captured Fort Picuiba from the Bolivians and killed scores of the defending force of 1000.

Indications were that Paraguay is preparing to attack Bolivian communication lines running up the Pilcomayo River from Fort Ballivian, Bolivia's last remaining stronghold in the western Chaco and Paraguay's chief objective.

Fort Picuiba, more than 100 miles north and slightly east of Ballivian, guarded an important Bolivian north and slightly east of Ballivian, guarded an important Bolivian military road running about 100 miles westward, where it joined the main Bolivian military highway, shortly above Villamontes.

Since January Paraguay has intermittently hammered sectors north of Ballivian in an effort to drive a wedge behind the fort and drive a wedge behind the fort and push the enemy from the western Chaco.

Boliviar resistance and counteroffensives, resulting in heavy cas-ualties, have halted five Paraguayan major drives since the Bolivians dug in on the Ballivian line, to which they retreated in January.

CONTINENTAL LIFE BUILDING IS INSURED FOR $1,000,000

State, Which Is Now Operating Company, Takes Out Fire and Tornado Protection.

Fire and tornado insurance against damage up to $1,000,000 has been taken out on the Continental Life Insurance Co. Building at $250. Olive street it was and ing at 3615 Olive street, it was said today by Albert A. Ridge, attorney for the State Insurance Department, which is operating the company.

During the recent trial which resulted in its being placed in the hands of the State Insurance Department, Ed Mays, president of the company, testified no fire or tornado insurance had been pur-chased because he considered the building immune to such hazards, Ridge said he thought the maxi-mum damage which could result from fire or tornado would be about $1,000,000. The building was appraised at $1,500,000 by witnesses for the State at the trial, while appraisers for the company placed a valuation of about $2,200,000 on the property.

MACKENSEN TO THE RESCUE.

M EANWHILE, the Seventeenth German Corps and a reserve corps, upon which the success of the whole audacious German plan depended, were rushing forward in forced marches, from where they had been stopped in their retreat from the Gumbinnen battlefield, toward the neighbortheir retreat from the Gumbinnen battlefield, toward the neighborhood of Ortelsburg, in Samsonoff's rear, in order that they might launch from there the crucial attack against the Russian right flank. The Seventeenth Corps was flank. The Seventeenth Corps was under the command of von Mack-German side in the World War sec-ond only to that reserved by fate with ruthless energy. It seemed as if human end paths. It seemed as if human end durance, even when coupled with the most energetic leadership, could the most energetic leadership, could deadly as that which had destroyed

At Hindenburg's headquarters officers were sick with apprehension. Night came. Still there was doubt as to whether Mackensen would arrive in time. The tension became too much for Ludendorff-brilliant, high-strung, mercurial. To Hindenburg, sitting unmoved in an atmos phere tingling with the presage of disaster, Ludendorff blurted out: "And suppose Mackensen is too Suppose his men are too

'Suppose We Get Some Sleep.' In his perturbation there was clear hint that maybe the plan to destroy Samsonoff was, after all, too ambitious. Other staff officers spoke up. They, too, were inclined to play the safer game. If the dreaded thrust should come from Rennenkampf, it would mean utter ruin for the Germans so deeply engaged against Samsonoff.

Hindenburg sat listening. He was alm as a graven Buddha. "Gentlemen," he said finally, "to-day has been a hard day for all of is. Tomorrow will be another. Supose we all get some sleep." Next day the news came that Mackensen had arrived at the place ssigned to him, in the nick

With the German center badly shaken, but still obstinately holding against Samsonoff's attacks, with the troops of Francois still hitting at the Russian left, the men of Mackensen, numb with fatigue, sweating, covered with dust, suddenly deployed from the north and, with savage yells, flung themselves upon the right wing of the Army of the Narev. After hours of bloody fighting, the Russians were thrown westward, into the trap. And Francois, sweeping against the other Russian flank, flung it back upon Soldau, and, plunging through that town northeastward, at last joined hands with Mackensen, near Ortels-

The trap was shut. Relief Column Beaten.

But before doom overwhelmed the unhappy Russian commander and his army, it looked for a bit as if salvation was, after all, to come to them. News suddenly reached the Germans that big forces of Russians, whose commanders had got wind of Samsonoff's predicament, were advancing out of Russia toward Neidenburg and Ortelsburg.

Had this new Russian army caught the Germans unprepared, the day might have gone against them and there would never have been a Hindenburg legend. But Francois and Mackensen, apprised of their peril, took instant measures. At first they could order only a few battalions against the oncoming Russians. But these battalions fought with such dogged obstinacy that they kept their foes at bay until more German regiments, snatched together from wherever they could be spared along the long battle-line, threw themselves against the foe. After bloody fighting, the new Russian army was driven back into Russia, whence it had come.

Samsonoff was doomed. Samsonoff's Suicide.

Every available German soldier was now headed against him, from every side of the steel trap in which he was desperately but hope-essly strugling.

Whichever way his troops turned, Whichever way his troops turned, they met a wall of enemy infantry; they were mowed down by merciless artillery fire. Mad with panic, throwing away their rifles. crying out in prayer to the sacred ikons held in their shaking hands, the Russian soldiers plunged this way and that in the hope of breaking out of their prison. But there was no escape.

out of their prison. But there was no escape.

About 100,000 Russians were killed and wounded; another 100,000 bocame prisoners. As the Germans swept over the blood-soaked field in their hour of victory, they came upon a Russian officer lying dead, with a smoking pistel by his side. He wore a General's uniform. It was Samsonoff, He had committed suicide.

The great battle in which Samsonoff had met disaster at the hands of Hindenburg was named Tannenberg after one of the villages, not among the most important, from a military standpoint, around which the fighting had raged. But there was good reason for the Germans to choose that name.

Five hundred years before, the Teutonic Knighta, champions of Germans magainst the Slavs, had been routed at Tannenberg by a Polish army. Now, five centuries later, a German army, by defeating another Slavic army on the same ground, had obtained for Germany to make the most important for Germany into delirious rejoicing. LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 16 (via Mackay Radio).—
Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has recovered sufficiently from his touch of illness to take a stroll in the open air at his advance base, 123 miles south of here. He walked in a temperature of 61 degrees below zero yesterday.

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, who led the tractor expedition which reached the advance base, reported by radio that he was uncertain as to when the trip back would start. Byrd ordered E. J. A marriage ceremony was later performed but the pair never lived together, according to petitioner's attorney, Pleasant V. Wilson, who said the marriage took place after a short courtship and was without consent of his client's parents.

Mrs. Melton filed the suit through her mother, Mrs. Letha Hampton, 8815 Washington boulsvard, as "next friend." The petitioner says the marriage was void. Melton could not be reached.

Why He Didn't Call Aid.

Poulter asked Byrd why, when he realized he was in distress, he did not ask the men at Little America to come for him at once, and why he did not directly tell them

"I didn't think it would be the right thing to do," Byrd replied.

He said that most of the time during which Little America lost contact with him, he could hear them calling him by radio and reporting on expedition affairs, but his strength was diminishing and it exhausted him to crank the hand generator, even for a little while at a time.

Charles S. Mueri, South St. Louis uilding contractor, who had told how his friendship with Mrs. Emma A. Trefts began with their meeting in an alley in the rear of their omes, continued his deposition yesterday relating the circumstances under which their association of more than 12 years came to an end, resulting in a $250,000 breach of promise suit being filed by the 45-year-old widow.

Mueri appeared surprised when Mrs. Trefts, who had not attended the hearing the previous day, walked into the office of her attorneys, Charles L. Moore and William C. McLaughlin, where his deposition is being taken.

She wore a white embroidered eyelet dress with a brown belt, a narrow-brimmed brown straw hat, white gauntlets and white shoes. About her neck was a string of yacht. white beads and on her left wrist a gold bracelet.

Why They Broke Off. The contractor said he discontinued his association with Mrs. Trefts after she had assaulted Miss Katherine Wolfert, 1926 Lami street, last Feb. 19, in front of his apartment at 5715 South Broadway. Miss Wolfert, he said, was waiting for him outside his apartment while he carried in his groceries. They were to join a group of friends for the evening. When he returned from the apartment, he stated, he found Mrs. Trefts on top of Miss Wolfert, beating her with her purse which contained a pair of opera glasses. Even after he had made peace, Mueri related, Mrs. Trefts insisted mpanying them in his automobile to a doctor, where it was necessary to close a laceration on Miss Wolfert's face with two stitches. For safety, Mueri added, he placed Mrs. Trefts in the front "right" to ride there, the injured woman occupying the back seat. That night, Mueri said, he told Mrs. Trefts he was through. following day he told her 18-yearold son, whom he employed, that he would no longer be needed.

Assault Suit Pending. Mrs. Trefts filed her suit July 15 and Miss Wolfert sued her for $50,-000 for assault July 23.

Mueri, over the objection of his attorney, Alvin F. Hackman, was required to go over more detailed questions as to his gifts to Mrs.

heir acquaintance. He stoutly denied telling her he would marry her or making plans for a wedding. While she may have inspected a house he had built at 3698 Bellerive avenue, he said, he did not show it to her as their future home. He could remember only soap and curtains as the ar-ticles obtained by her on his charge accounts. An electric refrigerator erty of the Mueri Realty & Building Co., 3134 South Grand boulevard, of which he is president.

At Christmas, 1933, he recalled, he gave her a $20 gold piece as a present. But, at no time, he added, did he buy her jewelry.

Mueri testified their acquaintance began when he resided at 3423 Chippewa street, where his garage was close to the kitchen door of Mrs. Trefts' home at 3743 Louisiana avenue, where she still resides. It was her habit, he said, to wait for him at his garage and suggest he take her to places of amusement. He will continue his deposition

VALENTINO'S FORMER WIFE WEDS SPANISH NOBLEMAN

Church Ceremony at Palma, Island of Mallorca. (Copyright, 1934.)

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The island romance, of Natacha Rambova, former wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, and a Spanish nobleman, Don Alvaro de Urzaiz, has resulted in a quiet church wedding at Pal-ma, Mallorca, it was said by Paris friends today. The ceremony on the island, now popular with Amer-icans, followed a secret civil mar-riage in Paris some time ago.

The bride has been the "reigning queen" of Mallorca. She has made a fortune in Mallorca real estate, buying up villas and renting them to visiting Americans.

She met Di Urzaiz, who is a member of a Basque family in San Sebastian, while he was visiting Paris. They have just bought a villa, overlooking the Mediterranean Sea near Palma, and a agreed to the church ceremony, in deference to the wishes of his family. Only a few Americans were at the ceremony in the church of San Francisco.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—All good tradition, must eventually come to an end, including the remarkable winning streak which carried the Detroit Tigers pennantward for more than two weeks.

After 14 consecutive triumphs, the Tigers struck trouble yesterday when the Yankees and young Johnny Broaca subdued them, 8 to 2, in the third game of their highly important set of five. As a result the Detroit lead had been reduced to five and a half semant oday and the Detroit lead had been reduced to five and a half games today and the Yankees' position looked somewhat more hopeful. The fourth game scheduled today was prevened by wet grounds. The clubs play a doubleheader tomorrow.

Broaca, although he allowed 10 hits, had control yesterday, and Tommy Bridges, who opposed him, did not. That was the deciding factor of the contest. In the first two innings, Bridges gave three walks and two of them resulted in runs when Ben Chapman followed with a single in the first and Frank Crosetti clouted a home run in the second. The Yanks went on to get two more runs before Tommy retired at the end of five innings, and raked his two successors, Carl Fischer and Luke Hamlin, for three

Meanwhile Broaca didn't issue pass, scattered the 10 hits over six separate innings and got some great support from Babe Ruth on the one occasion when he got into serious trouble. With the Tiger threatening to stage one of their typical come-back rallies in the sixth, the Babe fielded Charles Gehringer's drive fast to delay one catch of Billy Rogell's fly to help (Copyright, 1934.) GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 16.-Lord Jim, gallant-hearted, silkly looking bay colt, a $575 investment as a yearling, owned by E. L. Mefford, of Columbus, O., won the great $25,-000 Hambletonian stake for threeyear-old trotters yesterday afternoon. The victory netted the win-ning owner $13,506.81. It is the most world, and 20,000 spectators gathered mid bucolic surroundings here up in Orange County to see the race. They cheered heartily as Lord Jim trotted home three lengths ahead of Muscletone, from C. B. Shaffer's Cold Stream stud in Kentucky, with Princess Peg, belonging to the Lyles, of Plainfield, N.

It required four heats to settle the issue. The race began with eight starters, and dwindled to these three young stars, as each won a heat—Peg the First, Lord Jim, the second, and Muscletone the third.

As the race concludes in the evening shadows of a hot summer day, a great floral horseshoe is hung around the neck of Lord Jim, and we listen to an impassioned speech about Hamble-tonian, the horse for which the stake is named, sleeping these many, many years at Monroe, not far from the track where this is

A huge silver plate goes with the speech to Mr. Mefford owner of Lord Jim. The horse was sired by Guy Axworthy 2:083-4 and is out of a mare called Selka, 2:051-4, she by Peter the Great. Lord Jim comes from the old Walnut Hall Farm at Donerail, Ky.

Dr. Hugh Parshall, the winning driver, also made a speech, but it is in honor of Lord Jim. Dr. Par-shall said Lord Jim is a great horse and that he always knew Lord Jim was a great horse.

Princess Peg Breaks. Princess Peg. was away first in the final heat, with Lord Jim second, and Muscletone third, and the spectators were still rushing the bookmakers as Starter Phillips bawled "go." At the quarter, Muscletone moved up second, then for another quarter of a mile Peg and Muscletone race head and head like a matched team. Then Peg shoves ahead briefly, but Dr. Parshall takes Lord Jim to the outside and comes like a whirl as they turn into the stretch. Here Peg broke badly, and dropped back and Lord Jim passed Muscletone, to show the way all through the stretch, trotting like through the stretch, trotting like through the stretch trotting like through some strange piece of mechanism, Dr. Parshall holding the reins as lightly as if they were mere threads.

BELL DEFEATS

by the Associated Press, NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—The last member of the American Davis of New York, second seeded, was beaten in straight sets by the amasingly improved Berkley Bell, the former tumbling Texan, by a 6-4, 6-1, 6-3 margin in a quarterfinals match.

This victory, the decisiveness of which was highly surprising, moved Bell into the semi-finals against Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., who gave him a four-set beating in last week's Longwood bowl final.

of the unseeded players, J. Gilbert Hall of New York, 8-1, 6-2, 6-1.
Hall, who gained the quarter-finals when the defending champion, Francis X. Shields, defaulted because of an injured leg, was unable to make any kind of showing against the brilliant youngster.

Parker concentrated against Hall's backhand with such skill that the latter was only able to win four service games during the entire match.

The youthful victor made but 35 errors during the 22 games, but he only earned one more point than Cup entry in the Newport Casino singles tennis competition was wiped out today when Sidney Wood Wilmer Allison, last year's runner-up to Shields and last week's winner over Berkley Bell in the Longwood Bowl final, gained the second last round by defeating his doubles partner, Johnny Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3, in a rather tame baseline duel.

Each of the many types of General Motors Trucks is "engineered for the job." And that's far from just a phrase... Consider, for instance, that there are nine different engines in the General Motors Truck line, twenty-seven different chassis types, fifteen different transmissions, twenty-four rear exies. Naturally it would be far easier to build a less complete line. But satisfying truck users by building trucks that exactly fit their needs is profitable business because it means profitable truck operation for owners.

The proof that the paddlers didn't mind the drizzle was found in a survey of the results eight years ago, when the last Western A. A. U. carnival was held here. At that time Francis Stephens won the 50-yard free style in 26.2 seconds. This year, apparently, Stephens hasn't slowed up much, for the finished third to Charles "Chuck" Flachmann, who was clocked in 24.3 seconds. Moreover, there was no rain in the 1926 meet.

Flachmann Betters Records. Whenever Flachmann swims, he makes history, and the Illinois University star carried off the indi-vidual point trophy by capturing the 100-yard and the 220-yard freestyle races in addition to the 50. In winning, he was almost 17 seconds faster than the 1926 furlong time and four seconds better in the 100vard event. If the carnival is con

Lillian Sanders of the Highland team won two races, the 100-yard free style and 100-yard backstroke, to capture the trophy offered to the woman scoring the most points. She and June Koehr, swimming unattached, were the only girls who placed in more than one event. Miss Koehr was second to Lorraine "Turtle" Morrison in the fancy at their enemies.

from their recent uprising, one of several that have preceded it, is the loss of salary for all idle days, the price of two uniforms listed at $36, fines for their re-bellion against authority and, worst of all, the loss of the respect and hearty support of their team-

The last is something to be seriously reckoned with.

While the Cardinal manage-ment has not expressed itself, it is certain that the Deans' most recent ebullition has crystallized the club's determination to settle once and for all whether the Deans or the owners are running the club.

Not So One-Sided.

B ASEBALL players have been referred to as chattels. They are, in a sense, tied to the soil, like serfs of old. That is, they cannot change their club affilia-tions of their own volition or seek employment from the high-

The contract that binds them to this serfdom has been, on one accasion at least, pronounced not binding. Players, however, know that if they could not be bound to one club baseball could not continue. They therefore consent continue. They therefore consent to be bound. They never take their contracts to court.

Players themselves understand that the absolute control exercised by club owners is the thing that makes possible the amazing salaries drawn by some baseball players.

What the Deans don't seem to realize is that their failure to live up to their contract in good and the club owners, but their 19 teammates as well.

The Cardinals are in third place now. Should the Deans remain obstinate, the team will even slip out of first division That would mean the loss to 19 members of the Cardinal club of about $15,000, representing a third place share of the world series money. With the Deans working, they might still capture second place, which last year paid $21,-000.

It must take a mighty ego to produce a frame of mind where, for no particular reason, a man can cause 20 others to suffer such

Fans Not So Patient.

T HE success of Dizzy and Paul, and their willingness to work, is not an offset to their "popping off." it seems. Fans who sympathized with them once, are, now heard to grumble.

Most of them had viewed the Dean antics as the moves of publicity hunters. Some of that element has entered into it from the Dean standpoint—but not from the club's. Undermining the mor-ale of a team is a serious business with the men who pay the freight.

There is no doubt that the Dizzy and Paul "booted one" in their refusal to go to Detroit. As pointed out by Manager Frisch, neither Dizzy nor Paul had worked a full game the day before, nor had either acquitted himself with particular credit. But most of the other players like Frisch worked eighteen inlike Frisch worked eighteen in-nings. None of them refused to go to Detroit.

Not Overworked.

T URTHERMORE, for all the use that has been made of them, neither of the Deans has done daily duty like the other done daily duty like the other regulars. An average of ten or twelve innings of work every four days is not enough of an ar-gument on which to base a plea for special favors or to excuse mutiny—that's the gist of the ar-gument heard from the anti-Dean element.

At times the spirit o' these two players has been marvelous. It certainly seems too bad that they must mar the splendid effect they have built up during their good days, by the childish uprisings they affect on other occasions. Such fine players are hurting their futures and their standing with the public by not acting like men and abiding by contracts they signed willingly and with thankfulness when they were submitted to them.

We Will Co-Operate with the U.S. Government By Making Loans to Repair and Modernize Property

ARTHUR A. BLUMEYER -

This bank has been approved by the Federal Housing Administration as a lending agent in the plan that will enable home or business property owners to borrow money on favorable terms for property repair and improvement.

Under this plan an owner of improved real estate, with mortgages, if any, in good standing, may borrow an amount per year up to one-fifth of his yearly income; the loan to be repaid monthly over a period of one to three years.

Loans will be made in amounts from $100 to $2000, and will be based on the character of the borrower and his ability to repay. Our arrangement with the Federal Housing Administration allows us to make these loans on the property owner's signature only, without other collateral or signers. No mortgage will be required.

We invite your application. You may go to your contractor, get an estimate on the repairs and apply through him to us, for the loan, or you may come to us direct.

We are pleased to be able to give the Administration our cooperation, and to give you this service. To our "New Deal Savings Account" we now add the "New Deal Loan" for property owners.

NAZIS FORBIDDEN TO DISPLAY OLD IMPERIAL FLAG

Order Threatens Expulsion From Party for Members Who Fly Black, Red and White Banner.

CREMATED ON PYRE ITALY MOVING TROOPS HINDU PRINCESS IN RURAL ENGLAND Indian Funeral Service Held FROM AUSTRIAN BORDER After Consort of Envoy

Dies in London. LONDON, Aug. 16. - English country-folk recently saw the body of a Hindu princess burned on a Nazi Putsch. pyre of aromatic wood. It was the funeral of Princess Shumshere

Jung, consort of a powerful Prince of Nepal, Gen. Bahadar Shumshere Jung Rana.

The Prince recently arrived in London to present King George with a new Nepalese honor and establish a Ministry. His Princess arrived with him on a stretcher. She had been an invalid for nearly a year. She had a sudden relapse Her cremation was conducted in accordance with the strict ritual of the Hindu religion. The body wrapped in a silk shawl of plnk gold, was laid on a bier cov-with a shroud and carried from the house to the cremation grounds by four Hindus of the n official quarters as proof that ighest caste, followed by Hindu nourners. The Hindu religion holds the cow a sacred animal, and therefore, nothing pertaining to the cow could be worn. All the mourners discarded their leather shoes for

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Questions for the New Dealers.

URING the past 16 months, the peo-ple have certainly demonstrated their eagerners to follow blindly any experi-mental plan or plans which our leaders offered as a remedy for our economic ills. No one denies that on the surface there has been some improvement, but if an at-tempt is made to balance cause and effect, the solution of our problems still appears far around the corner. We have now reached the point where, if we are to continue to follow with childlike trust, it is time for the New Dealers to clarify their theories.

They might explain just how the wealth of the country is to be increased by de-stroying the fruits of the earth; how the general welfare can be advanced by penalizing the many to raise the standards of a few. They should tell us of the magic by which increasing prices can bring relief when a vast consuming public has no money. They should let us in on the inner workings of the idea that we can borrow ourselves into prosperity. We would like to know how the circula-tion of money and credit is to be nored when the Government is co ually absorbing the sources of credit with huge issues of tax-free securities.

By what mysterious power will they give us codes written by the captains of industry from which labor and consumer can expect an even break? Property owners are anxious to learn their fate if vast housing projects are constructed at the taxpayers' expense. The man on the street would like enlightenment on how the huge sums now being expended by the Government are to be prevented from following the footsteps of all wealth into the hands of the few. The man who is broke and jobless cannot understand why the money changers who were driven from the temple are allowed to collect tithe at the outer gates. These and other equally important questions which are in the minds of the many might well engage the surplus energy of the so-called Brain

It appears more and more that we are much in the position of the bungling mechanic who blames his shortcomings on his tools. The old machine became lost in the mountain passes due to the mis-takes and greed of engineers who were only politicians, and our present leaders vet to demonstrate their ability when this new high-powered flying gadget, which raised us from the depths, is forced to come back to earth. No plan is going to be effective until we have more men of the Borah type in governmentof the honor cards.

Was 1875 Drouth Worse?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: R EADING in your Sunday paper that 1934 is the hottest and dryest year on record thus far, I should like to ask, what is the matter with the year 1875? I lived in St. Charles, Mo., at the time and the Missouri River was so dry we kids walked across it without getting our feet wet. And hot—oh, my! And hot-oh, my! HENRY J. NOLLMAN.

Pomerania and Poland.

Te the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: POMERANIA is ethnographically Po-Polant and economically indispensable to her, being the only means by which an approach to the sea is possible for a Polish nation of almost 33,000,000. The restitutes tution of Pomerania was brought about by the Versailles Treaty, which simply restored that political relation violated by the partition of Poland. Pomerania is not indispensable to Germany. It has importance only in so far-many as it involves problems of the administra-tion of transport; but in this respect, the state of communications between East Prussia and the Reich gives rise to no difficulty. The claims of Germany to Pomerania cannot be based upon any obctive arguments, but rather jective arguments, but rather upon her imperialistic policy, formulated by Frederick II: "He who holds the mouth of the Vistula and Danzig is more a master of Poland than the King who rules in Any move to take Pomerania from Poland again would stand out as a shocking contradiction of basic democratic principles, as it would again put a land thoroughly Polish under the rule of the German aggressor, and this contrary to wish of the inhabitants. If Poland to lose Pomerania, then, indeed, uld a corridor be created, but a Gern one, connecting East Prussia with amenting last Friday on the President's Wisnsin speech, we expressed the view that while Mr. Roosevelt, just back from his vacation, could not have been expected to deal with the present state of the country and with his own plans in other than broad generalities, the time was nevertheless ripe for an official statement of policy on a number of press-

This view that the President should speak his nind, definitely and without long delay, on the major problems that confront the administration is shared by the Cleveland Plain Dealer, a newspaper which has been notably friendly to the admit tion's recovery efforts from the beginning.

In a striking editorial declaration, the Plain Deal er says that one of the most troublesome factors in this view, we are in full agreement. Indeed, we besieve it does not strain the truth to say that uncertainty is today the most troublesome factor in the business situation. As the Plain Dealer well says "Knowledge of his (the President's) intentions, whatever they may be, would be less discouraging to pri vate initiative than the present uncertainty."

With the Plain Dealer, we believe it of fundamen tal importance that the President should clear away the doubt surrounding the currency policies of the Government are to be carried. We believe we should know whether the tentative promise of a balanced budget in the fiscal year 1936 still holds good. We believe we should be told what the President now thinks about restriction of production.

In this connection, the Plain Dealer asks: Is it still the opinion of the administration that we are poor in money because we are rich in goods? Specifically, does the administration subscribe to the view that recovery can be promoted by encouraging industry to produce and less, to be sold at more and more? In all friendliness, we submit that the country should have a more definite chart of the President's intentions than he gave us in his recent speech. He owes this to the country-and to himself.

A FORGOTTEN COVENANT CLAUSE.

The treaties that followed the World War have left peace of Europe and the world. Nearly every boundary set at Versailles, particularly in Central Europe, keeping Germany disarmed, helped the Nazis to powtempting to change the boundaries and treaty terms.

Another way out is now suggested—a way of peaceful negotiation that will test the statesmanship of European leaders to the utmost, but that is worth serious consideration in view of the pressing emergency. The proposal is presented in an editorial from the Washington Post, reprinted on this page, which is acclaimed by a writer in the Commonweal as editorial is identified as Felix Morley, now editor the Geneva office of the League of Nations Association of the United States.

Must Europe admit itself defeated at the conferor helplessly await another cataclysm of murder? Surely, sane men, realizing what a universal catastrophe another war would be, will not rest until the sources of European unrest are removed. Appli-Morley suggests is a logical method. It calls for sacrifices from all, and introduction to international ce organizations might well addre themselves to seeking action under the clause.

JOLLY OLD CONTRACT.

The Asbury Park bridge tournament is ended, and the results may be told in a few words. The crowned heads of contract are bloody and bowed. Four unknown contestants from Ohio won the trophy. They won decisively. The victors met Mr. Jacoby of psychic celebrity and took him for a ride he will never forget. Mrs. Culbertson appeared as an adversary in the final round. There was nothing left for her at the finish but a good cry.

But what of that other magnificent figure in the stratosphere of contract bridge—the rhomboidal Mr. Sims? Mr. Sims had vanished early from the proceedings. After that fragmentary bit of futile violence, during which he led from the right at Mr. Jacoby, the protagonist of one-over-one retired in a ponderous pout and was heard of no more.

So the professionals were routed, the amateurs triamphed and the conclusion may be submitted that, despite systems, conventions, inferences and all the rest of the hocus-pocus, contract bridge is a funny game.

INTO THE OCEAN'S DEPTHS. In many ways, the descents into the ocean's depths Saturday and yesterday by Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton were more dangerous as well as more marvelous than the recent ascent into the stratosphere's heights by three intrepid balloonists. The flyers descended safely by parachutes when their balloon went to pieces, after attaining an altitude of more than 60,000 feet. But the slightest crack in the airtight steel bathysphere which took the deep-sea men down 3028 feet would have meant instant death. The pressure at that depth is 1000 pounds per square inch; a single drop of water with that force behind it would be as deadly as a bullet.

Without detracting from the exploit of the strato sphere crew, it is safe to say that the divers saw more natural wonders in their few hours below the surface than could be found in a whole summer the Reich, without making this an organic part of Germany proper, and cutting off the Poles from the sea and the outside world, thereby depriving them of the possibility of developing their own independent, economic life.

Such a German corridor would in no way insure peace in Europe, but on he contrary would be an everlasting source of conflicts, disturbing the peace of Europe and of the rest of the world. Only the continued union of Pomerania with Poland can insure the continuance of European and world peace.

INDICTMENTS IN THE HILLSBORO CASES.

Approximately two months after their arrest. special session of the grand jury at Hillsbore has ndicted the 11 alleged violators of Illinois' so-called treason code, on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the Government. In addition, it has seen fit to indict four others who were active in working for the release of the 11, including a former University of Il-linois student who defended free speech.

This means that the cases are now in the courts of Illinois and that the merits and demerits are to be threshed out at law. From the evidence which we the present business situation is the uncertainty over have, it appears that the most these men may have the course that the President intends to pursue. With done was to participate in relief demonstrations which did no more than disturb the peace, if that much. But whatever was the case of the Montgomery County authorities, they only weakened it by setting exorbitant bail for the men and denying the press access to them.

A further point which should be kept in mind, as arrangements are made for the trial, is that a move ment is on foot to repeal the statute under which the indictments were returned. As we noted recently, State Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsadministration. We believe he should indicate to what ville has circularized his fellow legislators asking extent the "priming the pump" expenditures of the them to join him in taking it off the law books. He holds to the sound view that state treason codes have nothing to do with the maintenance of our form of government.

Meanwhile, residents of Montgomery County need not be surprised if they come in for national notice. It is a question whether their authorities have not abridged the civil liberties guaranteed by both the Illinois and the United States Constitutions, and while that remains an issue, Montgomery County, Ill., will be under the searchlight.

IN THE DEAD CAT LEAGUE.

So many dead cats, to use the General's own exression, have been flung at Hugh S. Johnson since he became National Recovery Administrator that he could not be expected to remember the source and complexion of each. We daresay, however, that he will have a hard time forgetting those cast by Mrs. a heritage of hatreds and discords that endanger the Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor. In the dead cat league, Mrs. Pinchot is 'way out in front. She has been telling Gen. Johnson what is a danger spot today. The party's nominee for Senator is Rush D. Holt, member of the Legislature, of the Post, formerly of the Brookings Institution who will not reach 30, the age required for senatorial staff. Mr. Morley is a leading authority on the service by the Constitution, until next June, whereas League of Nations through long experience at Ge- Congress convenes in January. Young Mr. Holt neva as newspaper correspondent and director of who defeated Clem Shaver, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and who will oppose the anti-New Deal Senator Hatfield, renominated by the Republicans, is ready to answer those who would ence table and rely only on its present armed truce, rule him out on account of his tender years. He has been delving into American political history, and he has a precedent for his case, should he be elected.

One of the most distinguished of all Senators, Henry Clay, Mr. Holt points out, was seated before cation of the apparently forgotten clause which Mr. he was 30. The youngster is right. The great Kentuckian, who wrote the Missouri Compromise, was born April 12, 1777, and he took his first seat in round tables of that sincerity which has hitherto been the Senate Nov. 19, 1806. This made him 29 years, who will honestly face the facts and lacking. With war as the alternative, is this too much 7 months and 7 days old when he began his congress sional career. It would seem that the Senate fel that since the Constitution authorized it to be "the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members," it had the right to overlook Clay's age if there were no objections.

At all events, this is part of the record and it will be on the side of the young man from West Virginia, should his State decide to send him to Washington.

MARY AUSTIN.

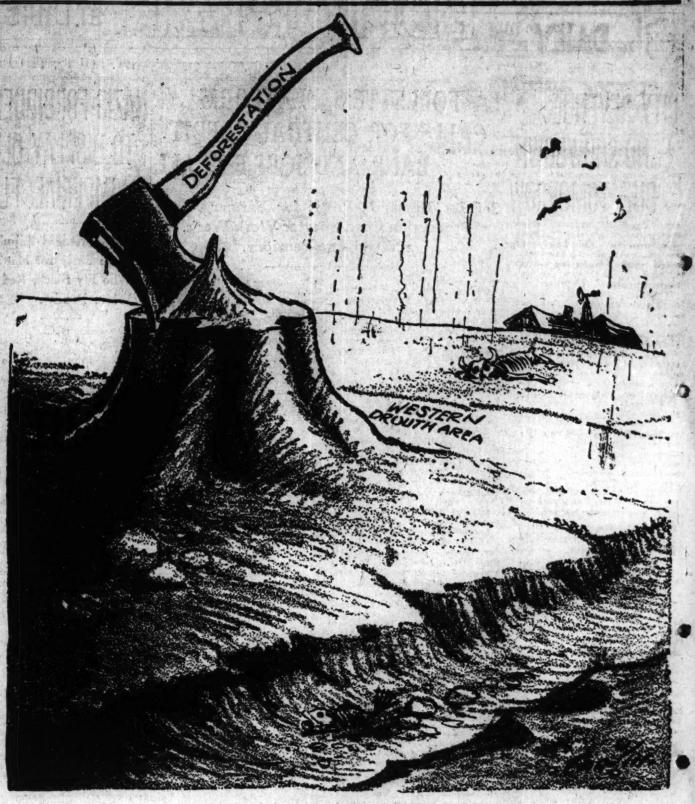

The interpreter of "the land of lost borders," who has died at Santa Fe, occupies a uniquely important place in American letters. Born Mary Hunter in Carlinville, Ill., and educated at Blackburn College in the late '80s, she was transplanted early in life to the Southwest, It was a fortunate move, for her mind, as someone has said, was made to the desert's order. Nature had fitted her for its desolation and austerity. She liked the vast reaches of color, the boundless sun-washed air, the fight for existence of growing things under adverse conditions. When she settled in New Mexico 16 years ago, virtually nothing had been done to collect, translate and preserve the literature, drama and folklore of the aborigines of that section. Thereafter, she devoted herself as siduously to a labor of love; she would have been on the program of the first National Folk Festival held here last spring, had it not been for her health. The Indians had a friend in court and before Congress in her; they were welcome at her Spanish colo nial home and they gladly joined her in the revival of almost forgotten arts and the annual market at Santa Fe. Workmanship and serenity, blue distances and s wholesome view of life are in her score of books Mary Austin rounded out the literary continent. Her passing will bring sadness in adobe houses and regret in many other places.

REFORMER PENDERGAST.

Discussing the late Missouri primary and the emer gence of "A New State Boss," the Springfield (Mass.) Republican indulges in a naive speculation as to Tom Pendergast. Does he belong, it wonders, to the traditional school presided over by such headmasters as Croker, Quay, Penrose, Cox and other such not ables? Or.

one would like to know whether . . . in spite of being called a boss, he has something in common with the late Joseph W. Folk, who, after dealing as a fearless District Attorsey with a corrupt ring in St. Louis and sending its leaders to iall, became Governor of Missouri and one of the potential assets of the Democratic party?

That is the question agitating the Masse

"THE SINS OF THE FATHERS-

-From the Atlanta Constitution.

Root of the European Evil

Perilous situation of Europe centers around "neurotic Germany and pauperized Austria," whose plight results from unfair peace treaties, writer says; no permanent stability possible unless causes are removed; to this end, he suggests use of section in League Covenant calling for reconsideration of inapplicable and dangerous pacts.

From the Washington Post.

NY attempt to dissect the Austrian crisis with other than purely second-ary explanations leads inevitably back to the punitive and short-sighted provisions of misnamed treaties of peace, concluded in 1919. Any attempt really to cure that festering sore in the heart of Balkanized Europe must face squarely the issue whether those treaties are any longer worth the cost of maintaining them as written.

For over 15 years now, Austria has been a slowly dying nation, spreading the infec-tion of her inoculated disease throughout the heart of Europe. Constant oxygens tion has been necessary to keep this politi-cal remnant alive. Relief agencies have poured in food for Austria's under-nour ished children. The League of Nations has sought to reconstruct her hopeless finances and has obtained loans for her. All this has served no real constructive purpose The food has gone; the money has gone; only the miserable plight of Austria re-

For over 15 years now, Germany has been a sorely crippled nation, bound down by terms of permanent inferiority never be-fore inflicted on a sovereign state. Her economic plight has not been as desperate as that of Austria. Her mental anguish has been greater; for just enough was to Germany to keep her hope alive. That much was denied to the less powerful of the old Central Empires.

So side by side in Europe, neurotic Germany and pauperized Austria have been told to look forward indefinitely, the one to alien domination and the other to being vassal pawn of great-Power politics. Of course, it can be said that these defeated nations played and lost, and should not whine. Of course, it can be said that their neighbors were justified in fearing their recan be made. But after that, this fact remains: They will not work. They have broken down on reparations; they have broken down on disarmament. They would probably break down on their territorial rms except that a ring of bayonets still

An almost inevitable result of this situation is what happened in Austria. Fanaticism, bred by despair, struck at the tottering foundations of the European peace system. Peace, of a sort, may be re-established this time, not because any of the problems which menace it have been solved, but simply because the big battallons are ready to drown any Austro-German revolt in a sea of blood.

So much for this particular putsch. But how about the next, coming perhaps at a time when desperation has ceased to count

In the Covenant of the League of Nations is one vital article, never yet invoked. "The Assembly," it reads, "may from time to time advise the reconsideration by members of the League of treaties which have become inapplicable, and the consideration of international conditions whose continuance might andanger the peace of the world."

If these was ever a time in history when were obviously inapplicable, if there were ever conditions which menace peace, these are the case today. On the League, it would seem, rests a virtual mandate to convene its Assembly in extraordinary session squarely to confront the task of preserving European civilization while there is yet time. Such an Assembly should do more than talk. It should organize itself as peace conference, a real peace conference to which the defeated countries would come on a basis of equality to state their cases and help arrange a settlement sufficiently reasonable to endure.

A fantastic idea? Perhaps; yet less fantastic certainly than the actual state of Europe today. And who will assert that the steadily growing problems of fanatical dictatorships, of underground revolutionary movements, of paralyzing economic distress and of ever-mounting armaments can be solved by any less forthright effort than that which is proposed?

It seems insufficiently realized that the one treaty of 1919 which has worked satisfactorily is that which was never put into operation. Turkey revolted aga operation. Turkey revolted against the terms she was ordered to sign, and Turkey today is the only defeated nation which is going forward and not back; which is a help and not a menace to her neighbors. Under duress, the terms of the Turkish set-tlement were intelligently revised, and the tlement were intelligently desirable. revision has proved universally desirable. It does not seem illogical to suppose that similar revisions, co-operatively undertaken, would work not merely to the advantage of Germany and Austria and Hungary, but more especially for world benefit, if statesmanship exists to take advantage of an opportunity which may not be indefinitely

EVACUATION OF HAITI. From the Portland (Me.) Evening News,

BEFORE the end of August, the last of the United States marines will have left the island of Haiti, in accordance with President Roosevelt's promise to Stenic Vincent, President of the Haitian Republic, following Dr. Vincent's visit to Washington last April. (The evacuation was completed yesterday. Editor's note.)

April. (The evacuation was completed yesterday.—Editor's note.)

Nobody will be sorry to see the marines evacuating the island Republic, least of all the Haitians themselves, who have chafed under this particular manifestation of Uncle Sam's "big brother" policy for the past dozen years and more. Nor should the marines be broken-hearted as they say farewell, for they have not been noticeably popular down there of late.

The marines were in Haiti under orders, of course. And they obeyed those orders and did their duty well. But their presence never was regarded by native Haitians as particularly conducive to Haiti's task of working out her own salvation as an independent state. With their departure, the people of the island Republic will feel, at last, that they are entirely "on their own." Relations between the United States and Haiti should improve greatly when the last marine has

Storing Water for Drouth

From the San Antonio (Tex.) Express.

OLLOWING the example lately set by the Brownwood Lake Irrigation District directorate in Texas, Oklahoma authorities have released 50,000,000 gallons of water from lakes in the Wichita Mountains to give thirsty towns, gardens and fields downstream a drink.

As a result, four streams which virtually had dried up under a burning sun-Medi-cine and Cache creeks in Cotton Count anche County—are flowing brimful as after a heavy rain. Temple and Walters, which had been threatened with a water famine, thereby obtained relief. Ranchmen are iriving the thirsty herds to water. Though marred by an accident which spilled four times the 19,000 acre feet contracted for, the Brownwood experiment-using the an engineering success. It demonstrated that water could be transferred long distances through open streams without to heavy loss from absorption. That method dispenses with costly aqueducts.

The Oklahoma authorities have applied the idea with equally good results. The lakes had been created as recreation spots and fish hatcheries, but the officials rightly considered the drouth-stricken communities had he first claim upon the stored-up water. However, the lakes will not be emptied comletely and will fill up again when it shall

The Texas and Oklahoma enterprises hould stimulate the development of a new industry-storing up water against drouth or for regulating stream flow at need. Along the headwaters of numerous rivers— particularly those which rise in the Texas hills—are numerous canyons that might be dammed inexpensively, to create reservoirs. Such a program would afford an answer to man's oldest complaint—that rain falls mostly when he does not need it or where it will do him no good. Man cannot control rainfall, but by terracing, tree-planting, storage dams and irrigation canals he can control water after it reaches the ground.

MORE HOUSES NEEDED.

From the Philadelphia Public Ladger.

A N INTENSIVE survey of housing conditions in 59 cities, excluding the largest municipalities, such as New York and Philadelphia, shows a smaller degree of vacancy than might have been expected. Acting Secretary John Dickinson, who announced the figures, commented that the largest cities, because of their special conditions, had been left out of this phase of the inquiry. Probably the figures for the big communities will show much more vacancy, doubling up, housing depreciation and similar conditions.

That is to be expected, particularly where industrial distress has been highly aggravated in great centers of population.

But the figures mentioned by Mr. Dickinson now demonstrate in any event the need for a comprehensive reconstruction of such property, in all cities, and point to an early demand for new construction. From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Tennessee Valley don't like being called a "laboratory." They want to be let alone.

This is the country where an early rugged individualist carved these words on a tree: "D. Boone—Killed a Bar." But the cards are stacked against them and here's nothing to do but submit o courses in Bee Culture and Parliamentary Law.

The strange thing is that there is little opposition. In a crossroads store in that part of the valley which next year will be under 60 feet of backed-up water from Norris Dam, the storekeeper drawled:

two-fold 1. TVA talks with money, both in buying properties in the reservoir areas, and in employing thousands of valley men on the two dam construction jobs—at Norris Knoxville and at Wheeler ear Muscle Shoals.

2. TVA's prophets are soft-pedaling the laboratory talk, urging a policy of self-determination. Fancy Notions.

N the early days, Director A. E. Morgan and his staff of college trained, energetic young men got emselves labeled as "damyankees with fancy notions."

The amazing thing is that the pithet has disappeared, though the fancy notions" remain. They ave not evaporated in the face of he pressing need of finishing a big engineering job. In fact, the biggest construction job that is going on here is social. It may have come out of a textbook on sociology, but it has come out. It is a

HENCE TVA is faced with a problem of long range social planning to increase living standards. It's a big problem, yet not so big as the problem in the Pacific Northwest, where Government power plants will soon be generating thousands of kilowatts an hour on the forested banks of the Columbia River, where selling to the consumer means that first, there must be consumers and, second, the consumers must be elec-trically-minded.

The Tennessee Valley does have the people. And TVA teaches radie to Art Lipscomb so that when he goes home he can make a living for himself on a higher scale and be a good customer for TVA power.

Take the reforestation program. It will be a long time before TVA gets this money back. On a piece of bottom land along the Clinch River, foresters have planted seedlings of chestnut and of poplar. The poplar is of a new variety, expect ed to grow fast and simultaneously grow big, be useful for reviving the wood-pulp industry in a country where all good timber land has been cut over.

Water Struck at 605 Feet Is Satisfactory; Others Will Be Drilled.

Deep wells to furnish relief to families of drouth-stricken farmers and their livestock will be drilled in Jersey County by the Illinois Emergency Relief. Drilling of the first well on public land will begin just as rapidly as a drilling rig can be moved to the first appointed lo-cation, and the work will be carried on 24 hours each day until of the Jersey County Farm Bureau late Sunday afternoon by repre-sentatives of a number of organizations of the county with the dis-trict director of emergency relief, H. P. Scott.

Railroad facilities in the county

A meeting was held at the offices the bridge approach to the calities having the greatest present shortage of water. A survey of deep wells and their locations has been made by Coun-prepared by him and was exhibited at the meeting.

Good Water at 605 Feet.

The most recent well drilling in the county is the deep well on the Pritchett farm in Fidelity Town-ship operated by T. S. Chapman of Jerseyville. Water was struck in that place at a depth of 605 feet in satisfactory quantities.

Drillers indicated that it might be necessary to go to considerable depths to obtain the type of well from which a community could be sufficient quantities to supply one individual or several parties at a much shallower depths, but in order to obtain plenty of water for a community project, it may be essential to keep drilling for some depth after water has been struck. Some farmers have been obliged to haul water as far as seven miles in a number of cases, and attention was called to one farmer who has been hauling as far as 12 miles.

Many Springs Dry.

Another unpleasant revelation at the meeting was the report that many of the long flowing springs of Western Jersey County have gone dry.

A livestock feeder northeast of Jerseyville has 180 head of cattle. Water has been hauled from Jerseyville to the farm the past few

The cattle were being -rationed water, none of them being permit-ted to drink all they could hold. A man was stationed at the water tank, and each animal was allowed to drink. When certain animals persisted in drinking, they were driven away with a club.

Government Wells Being Drilled Near Fayette, Mo. FAYETTE, Mo., Aug. 15 .- Federal well drilling projects are now under way in Prairie Township near here. About 40 men are employed and several wells are being sunk in different parts of Howard A large number of Howard County farmers are now without water for their livestock, and many are even hauling their drinking water. Farmers vells are being drilled are required to sign contracts that any resident in the county can get water at wells drilled as Federal projects. The well drilling in the county is expected to last about five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Louis! Dear Friends:

Today at Noon the ... redecorated ... rebeautified Missouri reopens its doors ... joining its sister theaters ... the Fox and Ambassador ... as another link in our locally ewned and managed entertainment institutions.

Our policy will include two feature full-length pictures and selected short subjects . . . a good buy for show shoppers, particularly at the bargain matinee price of 25c till 6 P. M.

On our opening program, beginning today, is the screen version of John Galsworthy's best selling novel

"One More River" with Diana Wynyard

Every woman . . . and man, too . . . will live with this greatest of Galsworthy heroines . . . through her sorrows . . . her scandalous divorce . . . her love for a penniless young man . . . and her resistance to that love. This is an Intense story . . . faithfully filmed . . . adult in its appeal . . . and therefore not suited for children.

The other picture on our opening Missouri program is "The Crime of Helen Stanley"

An Inspector Trent mystery story . . . of back stage Hollywood in which a movie star is shot and killed during the filming of a picture . . . starring Relph Bellemy, Gall Patrick and Shirley Grey.

Tomorrow at Fox and Ambassador

Because of the response to our experiment of running the same picture at these two theaters . . . we have selected another outstanding attraction to play both houses following the current Will Rogers picture.

Harold Lloyd in "The Cat's Paw" impresses us as being one of the truly fine comedies of the talking picture era! Harold plays the son of a Chinese Missionary . . . who visits America for the first time . . . is in search of a wife to take back to China. His hilarlous experiences will keep you laffing for a long time.

Like "Handy Andy," "The Cat's Paw" is 100% family entertainment . . . good for the youngsters . . . and for the older folks too . . . not only a typical Harold Lloyd comedy—but a fine story as well . . . It is from Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post serial! It took two years to make . . .) with Lloyd pouring all of his genius for good clean comedy into it.

And on the same program will be an added featurette ... "A Century of Progress" ... better than a trip to the World's Fair ... intimate glimpses of the big exhibits. We feel sure you'll like it.

Remember, tonight is the last showing of Will Rogers in his newest comedy, "Handy Andy."

Sincerely, Fanchon and Marco

BOND TRADE QUIET IN EARLY SESSION

e Associated Press.

W YORK, Aug. 16.—With a substan-soovery to its credit following last a decline on inflation fears, the bond of entered a sone of relative quiet today in the readjustment process naturally followed the snarp up-since Monday, proces of some classifi-s slipped back a little although the all tone was steady.

corporate list displayed a mild degree of irregularity.

Improvement in the Treasury group ranged from 1-32d to 6-32s of a point, carrying the 3s of 1948 to 100.26; the 3½s of 1941 to 104.11; the 3½s of 1944 to 102.16; the 3½s were up 4-32s at 101; and mortgage 3¼a were up 4-32s at 101; and the 3s showed a like gain at 99.13. Home owners loan 3s and 4s were 5-32s higher at 99.13 and 99.24, respectively.

There was a sprinking of gains in semi-speculative issues, meluding some loans of Alleghany Corporation, American & Foreign Power, Eric, New York Central, Postal Telegraph and Southern Pacific. Local tractions continued in demand at new high levels.

Valuable Courage. Mr. Mellon's Fine Purchase. Canada's Big Shock.

For Not Raising Hogs.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. Copyright, 1934.)

Suppose you had a President afraid to move, afraid to relieve the desperate, impoverished farmers by pouring out Government money, what might be the result?

Suppose you had a President talking about the divine law of "supply and demand," instead of warning dealers that gougers in food prices will go to jail, as President Roosevelt warns them.

While you are glad to have a President with courage to act in drouth or other emergency, you worry a little about distributions of public monies as loans on all kinds of houses that need mending and on farms with owners that would like to borrow.

With 10,000 politicians scattering the public money, estimating the value of properties and handing out loans, how much of that money will come back?

It is good news that Andrew W Mellon, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, who seems to possess a "comfortable competence," depression or no depression, has bought Raphael's magnificent painting "Alba Madonna" from the Russian ba Madonna" from the Russian Government, for $1,500,000.

Geese will say: "How terrible to spend so much money for one picture in these times." Wise men will say to the geese: "You wouldn't get the money anyhow, if he didn't buy the picture." He is to be praised for bringing that magnificent work of art to his own country, where thousands of young artry, where thousands of young artists will see and be inspired by it.

Mr. Mellon is generous, lending his finest paintings for public exhibition, and eventually the picture will become public property.

Mr. Mellon would render even greater public service if he could greater public service if he could persuade Russia to sell him the 6000 book library collected by Voltaire, taken from Fernet to Russia by the Empress Catherine II, when she bought everything in Voltaire's house, even the wooden paneling of the rooms. That library selected by Voltaire, hunreds of the volumes marked with comment in his fine handwriting on the leaf margins, would be more valuable than any picture or statue, with few exceptions.

What would you give for Vol-taire's copy of Montesquieu's "Spir-it of Laws," with the old man's sarcastic comments, written on leaf after leaf?

One million, five hundred thousand dollars seems a terrific price for one picture. But you could not puy from the Pope, Michelangelo's frescoes in the Sistine Chapel for 50 times $1,500,000, and the French Government would not sell you two of its statues, the Venus de Milo and the "Winged Victory," for $500,-000,000.

Some things fortunately have no

Canada has its first big kidnaping case, an important brewer, John S. Labatt, held by racketeers for $150,000 ransom. This Canadian beginning of what has grown to be beginning of what has grown to be one of the important branches of our great racketeering industry in the United States startles Canada. Canadians say, "Undoubtedly the work was done by United States racketeers," and very probably they are right about that.

Bond men pass from hand to hand a copy of an alleged letter vritten to a Boston bond house, urging "big profits to be made from NOT raising hogs." This parody on our era of plowing-under cotton, cutting down wheat just before a drouth, drowning farrow sows, reads in part, as follows:

"Mr. Blank of Northampton has a friend who received a Government check for $1000 this year for not raising hogs. So Blank now proposes to get a farm and go into the business of not raising hogs; also, not raising hogs appeals to him very strongly.

"Do you think capital could be provided by the issuance of a nonhog raising gold bond?

"His friend who got the thousand dollars got it for not raising 500 hogs; so we figure we might easily not raise 1500, or even 2000 hogs, so you see the possible profits are only ilmited by the number of hogs we do not raise."

This would puzzle Solomon, the

This would puzzle Solomon, the wise man, multiplied by ten thousand. Your Government has "resumed exporting gold." One milion dollars worth went to France yesterday, the first since April, 1833.

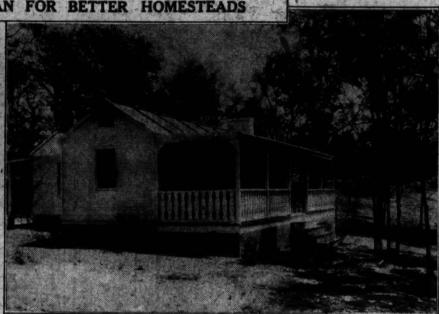

Somebody says it is a "gesture" to support the dollar.

Sponge Rubber Used to Make Pretty Dolls

Attractive Novelties for Baby's Bath Seen in St. Louis

By Sylvia

If your small son or daughter hash't a sponge rubber doll or animal to swish around in the bathtub it won't be long until you'll be buying one. A St. Louis shop has an interesting collection, augmented recently after it was discovered that the sponge rubber novelties are quite the vogue in other cities. The recent giftwares display in Chicago was quite a sponge rubber affair, so I've been told. The dolls available here include a Mas West imitator, a Japanese girl in her kimono costume, a Chinese lady in Mandarin togs and a simple little country girl. Animals include a host of elephants and dogs.

It has been several years since women insisted upon their cake or fruit plates having metal frames around them. The style has returned to favor and among the new glassware items are some handsome plates with Pompeian bronze frames and handles. Clear glass and several popular shades, such as amber and ice blue, are represented.

The mirror craze extends to serving trays. A stunning example imitates the decorative mirror placque with a girl's head as the motif. The with a girl's head as the motif. The design is painted on the reverse side of the glass, the highlights applied next and the background last. Less elaborate is a tray which has a wreath and star design. For serving cocktails, a small oblong tray with three pink elephants on it proves the most clever type.

The nautical theme isn't always interpreted in such a summer fash-ion that articles so inscribed can't be used when winter comes. A set of ash trays would be attractive in a den or boy's room 12 months out of the year. These are of black glazed pottery and have such nautical designs as anchors and sails. A set of four has a triangular holder, also of the black pottery.

Crystal cylinders unite with chro nium to form the standard on a table lamp that looks proud of its modern inspiration. The base is made entirely of the metal. To top this stunning decorative piece is an urusual shade. This has a natural parchment base over which a strip of rough cotton fabric has been stretched and then shellacked. The shade is oval in shape.

The three little tables which fit compactly together have been nesting about living rooms for many years but not until this summer did the decorators do anything about making them look more up-to-date. Now that they have started introducing metal frames painted white and plate glass tops, indications are that these summery inspirations will be popular next winter. The reason is that many smart host-esses are discovering how nicely bles when grouped beside each

Most folks will have to admi-Most roles will have to admit that a mere magazine stand with-out anything in it never attracted a lot of favorable attention. In spite of all the designers could do these remained utility items. There's a modern one, in a St. Louis shop however, that does attract even though it hasn't any literary load. It is of regulation size but has sharp corners to emphasize its modern-ism, and most artistic silver trimmings in the form of bands and lines. The wood is walnut.

The newest gadget to keep food cold in summer and hot in the was children do. Just let us a cake and candles and a party the way children do. Just let be monopolising the buffet supper market. It consists of three or core or and pairs which fit into a round tank. The tank is covered so in the wastern you fill it with not water either will starge until the food is served. Wooden handles are there either will starge the handles are there not only for ever me on my birthday, give me gifts of food," If a college girl has a yen for old-dashioned things, now is the cold-dashioned thi getting burned.

If a college girl has a yen for old-fashioned things, now is the time to make her a present of a colonial lamp for her room. There are plenty from which to choose but those table lamps of maple which have spinning wheel bases are the most intriguing. A shade of parchment paper that presents a plaid design may be selected in a choice of several different shades. The price is such that daughter can go modernistic next semester and you won't go broke.

If a college girl has a yen for "Grunt, grunt, do not me honor on my birthday, give me gifts of food," a squealed a sixth pig.

"Food, food, grunt, grunt, it's my birthday," grunted another pig.

"A meal, a meal, squeal, squeal, squeal, squeal, squealed an alghth pig, "and you needn's bother about toys, games books or any nonsense such as some ing creatures want—I'm not mentioning from any names."

"It's mine!"

Such was the grunting and ing speeches.

Letter From Husband Who Won a Fight

Thanks Columnist for Ad-

Dear Mrs. Carr:

HAVE never come to you for advice—nor have I ever been to anyone for advice, for that matter. I do not mean to say, however, that you could not give some which would be valuable to me; but the problem, with which I was confronted, was of such a nature I decided it was up to me. However, your column was directly, I am sure, responsible, for the solvof it, in this way:

Seventeen years ago I married a very sweet girl, now my wife. I have always adored her and from this union came two very fine boys one 14 and the other four years younger. I am 38. In 1922, I entered business for myself and threw my heart and soul into it—and it is still going. This business, however, threw me into direct contact with women. And, in the beginning, this did not bother my wife. But, after a few years I was accused by her of things that hurt, and hurt badly. there was not any foundation for these accusations. Try as hard as I could, I could not put any spirit into my work. Harmony had gone and we about came to the breaking point. But those boys got me thinking: what would happen to them without "dad?" I dearly eved them both.

One day, I noticed that my wife was reading your column and—lo and behold, I saw that it was sinking in. Some of your letters and answers were appropriate in our predicament. And did it help? Well, all I can say now is that she is the best little gal in the world. And I am so happy now that she has snapped out of it. Oh, boy! It's a grand and glorious feeling. Well, Mrs. Carr, it's the result your work, only you did not have the pleasure of knowing that NO NAME.

But I am glad of that pleasure now, and fully appreciate your very kind testimony.

Possibly the largest collection of Cleopatriana in this hemisphere, at least just now, is in a room on the Paramount lot where Cecil M. De Mille has been engaged in making a screen drama of her lift. It contains, roughly, a thousand port-raits. There are paintings, sketches, etchings, statuettes, coins and med-als—all showing Cleopatra.

"They all agree on one thing," says De Mile. "They agree in being different. There are as many Cleopatras as there are artists and poets, and they all insist she was beautiful."

How Doctors Cut Diphtheria Death Score

Antitoxin Has Made Dread Disease One of Least Feared.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

N the middle of the seventeenth century, a bishop developed a sore throat. He asked one of his friends to smell his breath to find if it was foul. The friend did so and "perished miserably four days later of suffocation." The suffocation was due to inflammation and swelling of the throat similar to the bishop's. It was in this way that men learned that diphtheria was contagious.

Even after it was known to be contagious, little could be done to prevent the contagion or to help it after the victim took sick. It is difficult for those who have lived only since 1890 to realize how dreaded the disease used to be. And with reason. I remember when I was a boy, a young playmate of mine died of the disease, and two of the six pallbearers at the funeral came down with it.

Even in 1900, seven years after antitoxin was introduced, the death rate was 43 per 100,000 population. Today it is six.

The dreaded feature of the discase was the suffocation. Diph-theria was called "garotillo" in Spanish, because the suffocation was similar to the garotting, or strangling method of execution Improvement in our control of the disease came in 1826, when Brettonneau, a French physician, described it. Brettonneau lived in the ancient city of Tours, where parks of Tours there is a marble shaft erected to its three great physicians-Brettonneau. seau and Velpeau. Brettonneau gave the disease its name, and furnished a full description of its various forms. But he had no treat-Fifty years ago, in 1884, the cause of the disease, the diphtheria bacil-lust was identified and described. In 1890 Behring discovered that the blood serum of horses which had been immunized by repeated injections of the germ would, if injected into guinea pigs, protect them from what would be otherwise a fatal dose of the bacilli. Not until 1894, when Roux and Martin in Paris demonstrated on 300 children, that the antitoxin could be used success fully in the treatment of human diphtheria, did our modern results in treatment begin to show up.

Even greater advance came when in 1913, Schick of Vienna described skin reaction test with the toxin or poison germinated by the diphtheria bacillus. When a tiny amount of this toxin is introduced under the skin of a person sus-ceptible to the disease, a red area appears in 24 hours. Those in whom such a red area does not develop, will not catch diphtheria even if exposed; the others will. These tests are called negative or positive Shick tests, and it is possible, by applying them, say to a roomful of school children, to tell theria and which are safe.

Then, by the use of toxoid, we can immunize the susceptibles so Today, diphtheria is one of the Care of Child Primary Duty Of Governess

She Eats at Family Table Only When the Child Does.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

W E have three small daughters aged 6, 8 and 9. They are too old for a nurse so we are too old for a nurse so we have engaged a governess—a young Swiss woman who is obviously a lady—who will give them the advantage of speaking both French and German. But not having had a governess before, we are rather at a loss to know—apart from giving them lessons—what other duties she has and most especially what duties will she not have? Must she always be at table with us and in the living room, even when we have company?

Answer: As a rule the governess

Answer: As a rule the governess eats with the children, lives with the children and teaches the chil-dren, and is with them all the time that she is on duty. She should not have to make their beds nor mend their clothes, though she may have to see that they are proper-ly bathed and dressed. She of course watches over them and supervises their behavior and guides them in their habits, and also encourages their sports and amuse-ments. She comes to the family table always when the children do, and eats with them whenever their meals are served apart. After meals she goes to the schoolroom and waits until the children join her unless you have other

Dear Mrs. Post: From having had a complete household, we can now afford only one general maid and I am finding it hard to make the right adjustments. The climax eccurred the other morning when she complained bitterly about hav-ing used pots and dishes to clean up after her day off, and said that there wasn't much point in having a day off if next day there was everything to do. Will you tell me whether she was right?

Answer: I know too little about the circumstances to judge whether your maid's protest is reasonable or not. If the fewest num-ber of dishes and utensils are left emptied in the dishpan, and if the work of your house is otherwise made light, it might be quite all right to expect her to wash them. But if she comes home to find the whole kitchen in a mess and cluttered with dirty pots and pans and dishes, then she would be right. An important point to remember is that the more conscientious she is, the more upset she will be to find her kitchen in dicorder. If she does not mind coming home to dirty dishes and a cluttered kitchen, the chances are that she will not mind the sight of dirt or clut-

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

HE Severn house on Bainbridge Island was a great whitewashed brick mansion with formal gardens sloping down to the water. At the right of the house were tennis courts, at the left four small guest cottages grouped around a blue tiled swimming pool. Moored to the private dock were Kent's small "Chanticleer," and the larger boat which was his father's pride, the "Clara."

Mary was in one of the guest houses with Emily Vinson. "I know you won't mind, my dear," Mrs. Severn had explained effusively. "But Emily does want to stay in one of the guest houses, and she doesn't want to stay alone. Besides, I do want you to know her better. Now take good care of Mary, Emily!"

Emily needed no further instructions. She and Mrs. Severn had talked it all over long before the 10 guests who made up the party had been invited. Emily was to watch Kent and Mary Dixon very closely. She was to arrange mat-ters so they would't be alone. She to be Mrs. Severn's first official hostess, her special charge Mary Dixon, and her second special charge Kent.

A nice plan, Mrs. Severn thought, putting Mary and Emily together. Kent could have no objection to that, because Kent didn't know yet that he was eventually going to

Suspected of the murder of DAVID COREY, JENNIFER HALE runs

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

Suspected of the murder of DAVID COREY, JENNIFER HALE runs away from Los Angeles and books passage to Seattle from San Francisco under the name of MARY DIXON. When the "Grace Larsen" is wrecked in a fog, KENT SEVERN of Seattle finds her in her cabin and carries her into the last life boat.

Mary tells Kent that she lives in Seattle but is out of a job, so he makes a place for her at the Severn Lumber Company where he is sales manager. Mary is glad for the job but discourages Kent's friendship because she is loath to involve him in the affairs of Jenniter Hale.

Although Kent's mother disapproves of his interest in a stemographer, she shows no hostility. When she invites Mary to spend a week-end at the Severn summer home, Mary feels obliged to accept but decides to lave Seattle as soon as she returns from the house party. THE next morning at breakfast Kent reported that there was no telegram for Mary at the Thornley Arms, and the girl pretended to be grateful, and relieved Kent had swallowed her story about her sick aunt-every bit of it. TODAY'S PATTERN

Frock for Young Girls

THIS is a frock fer what used to be called the "awkward age"—The years between 8 and 16. Styles like this have made it one of the most attractive feminine ages. The model is as young as youth, but designed with the skill of a woman's dress. Look at the front of that bodice with its nicked vest lines emphasized by cleverly placed buttons! See the way the panel idea is prolonged in the seams of the skirt! Don't you like the sleeves?—they can be short or long. And please don't overlook the back view, with that nice pointed yoke.

Pattern 1978 is available in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 takes 3½ yards 36-inch fabric and ½-yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions in-

French scientist has decided vomen are more progressive than nen and believes the latter are destined to disappear in 3000 to 7000 years, leaving women to rule the world. He defeats his own argument.

And furthermore, we don't think men are so reactionary that they'll wait 3000 years. Right now, we'll bet there are millions of men just waiting till they find somebody to disappear with—probably a blonde.

Diana Wynyard in Story

THE Missouri Theater, reopen-ing today, after being closed for the past three weeks, has a the past three weeks, has a double feature bill presenting Diana Wynyard in "One More River," and Ralph Bellamy in "The Crime of Helen Stanley." "One More River," adapted from the last novel written by the late John Galsworthy, English novelist and playwright, tells of a British divorce, what led up to it, and what followed. Diana Wynyard takes the part of Clare wy to it, and what followed. Diana Wynyard takes the part of Clare Corven, who flees from her husband in Ceylon and becomes unjustly suspected because of her subsequent friendship with a young man whom she meets on shipboard. Supporting cast includes Frank Lawton, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Colin Clive and Reginald Denny. "The Crime of Helen Stanley." starring Rainh of Helen Stanley," starring Ralph Bellamy and Shirley Grey, is a mys-tery story in a film studio setting.

Fall Clothes Offer Variety Of New Styles

By Dorothy Roe

you can wear practically anything your little heart desires this fall, and be sure that somewhere your costume has a sponsor.

The advance showings of fall clothes are that varied. Attempting to sift out all the various trends to sift out all the various trends and tendencies, we have arrived at the following broad generalizations. Split skirts are on the up and up, and the theme song seems to be "They're wearing them higher in Hawaii." The splits are seen both in evening and in daytime clothes, ametimes are being a fine trends in the second of sometimes reaching six inches above the knee and giving the longneglected petiticoat a chance to shine, the more exotic split skirt, in the evening bracket, reveal sen-sational petiticoats of everything from shadow lace to ostrich plumes. Fabrics are all-important, so many innovations being presented that it has everybody all befuddled. Eve-ning fabrics shine with metal threads and cellophane. Daytime sports clothes go in for shaggy tweeds and angora effects. Woolens also are in the running for evening.
The silhouette is slim and elegant, often with a tied-in-at-the-kness look; the tunic is all over the place, and there is a tendency toward promoting hip drapery—but it probably won't get far. Skirt lengths are about the same. Long-skirted cocktail suits and formal dinner blouses, worn with trailing satin skirts, are prominent.

There's a hobble-skirt look about nany of the new evening sill -which is the reason for the epi iemic of splits. Bright green scores for sports wear, taking the lead over the soft,

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE BLND AUTO MECHANIC—The story of Fred A. Wilcox, Ripley (N. Y.) garage owner, provides a paradox unequaled in the automobile industry, for in the last 12 years he has serviced thousands of automobiles—doing every automotive job from cleaning spark plugs to overhauling entire motors. Yet he has never seen an automobile. When Mr. Wilcox was but a small boy, he suffered the loss of his eyesight. With the advent of the automobile, he became interested in them and has since mastered the art of repairing the delicate motor parts purely by his sense of touch and memory of where parts belong. All his tools are carefully pigeon-holed where he can pick them up immediately, and his finished jobs are excellently done.

LAFITTE THE PIRATE—On Nov. 24, 1813, William C. Claiborne, Governor of Louisiana, issued a proclamation offering $500 for the arrest of Jean Lafitte, the pirate who, with his brother and a gang of 100 men, ran a freebooter and smuggling settlement on a group of secluded islands in Barataria Bay, about 40 miles south of New Orleans. Two days later, Lafitte's proclamation appeared beside that of the Governor, offering $1500 for the arrest of Governor Claiborne. While the Governor had to remain indoors, busy with the problems of the war with England, Lafitte and his companions continued to swagger through the streets unmolested. When Governor Claiborne obtained an indictment a Federal Navy and Army force raided the Barataria settlement and arrested the privateers, who were

The Tunnel

By L. M. M'Clanahan

Thad been years since Mr. Mott had thought of the tunnel as anything other than an engineering achievement — and a nuisance. Twenty years ago he might have thought it, as well, one of those fortuitious circumstances which make possible the kissing of one's girl in public.

Therefore, Mr. Mott did not at first attach any significance to the fact that the young couple who sat in the seat ahead sat farther apart after they had passed through the tunnel than they had before entering it. When he did finally become aware of it it became something of a game with him. After that when Mr. Mott boarded the 5:15 he found a seat behind the couple, or as near them as possible.

A calloused second finger of the right hand told Mr. Mott that the girl was a stenographer. He thought she must be about 20. Her hair was dark and curled in ringlets behind the ears. Best of all, Mr. Mott liked her eyes. He simply thought them "expressive."

As usual, Mr. Mott had to hurry to catch his train. As usual, Mrs. Mott had to find his muffler and gloves, help him into his coat and start him on his morning sprint for the station.

Mr. Mott sensed something wrong the moment he boarded the 5:14that evening. "The kids" the'd begun to think of them as part. They were silent, cold and stiff.

There girl showed signs of breaking the silence. Mr. Mott leaned forward. He couldn't help it. He had to hear.

The boy was, perhaps, 25, tall, serious-faced, not handsome, yet not unhandsome, with sandy hair and decidedly blue eyes.

Mr. Mott was middle-aged, married, but childless. Perhaps that is why he became so interested in them.

Mrs. Mott looked up from her breakfast grapefruit. Her husband's head was hidden on the other side of the parapet which was his morning paper.

Mott moved swiftly.

The light came again as they emerged into the open. Mr. Mott strained his ears. Her voice came, low, vibrant, almost unbelieving. "My dear—you do love me."

Politics in the Weather Bureau By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE Middle West got some rain this week, with almost 80 per cent falling in the Democratic states.

The Old Guard will howl about partisan politics in the Weather

But out in Indiana they don't care much what happens to corn, ong as it grows high enough to hide a gallon jug. The sun didn't burn up all the crops. The AAA beat 'em to the plowing some under. But it was a good combination for making scarcer and dearer.

Rotating the crops didn't make the crows dizzy. They got their
